

Highlights

- Combination of news and stock market features for analyzing stock market movements
- Applying Natural Language Processing techniques like LDA, Tf-Idf and Sentiment Analysis for Feature Extraction from news data
- A method to partition the dataset for training has been proposed which resulted in 97 percent accuracy
- Machine Learning algorithms are able to learn better when news features have been added to the stock market data
